VICTORY OF AMERICANS IN LORRAINE GROWS FRENCH LAUNCH ATTACK IN AISNE REGION

GENERAL PERSHING'S FORCES IN TWO DAYS DROVE IN TO A MAXIMUM DEPTH OF THIRTEEN MILES, TAKING TWENTY THOUSAND HUN PRISONERS, THE EQUIVALENT OF TWO ARMY DIVISIONS, BESIDES WIPING OUT THE ENTIRE ST. MIHIEL SALIENT AND IMMENSELY IMPROVING CONDITIONS FOR FURTHER OFFENSIVE OPERATIONS.

RIGID CENSORSHIP OBSCURES ALL PLANS
OFFICIAL REPORTS ARE NOT COMPLETE
FIGHTING IN LORRAINE IS ON THE WANE

Marshal Haig's Forces Engaged all of Last Night Further North in Beating off German Counter Attacks. Progress is Made by the British Forces Near St. Quentin. British Lines Are Pushed Far Beyond La Basse.

(By The War Editor of The Associated Press)

The scope of the victory won by the American First Army in Lorraine in its first offensive continues to grow. The number of prisoners taken is now said to be 20,000, which is virtually the equivalent of two enemy divisions.

General Pershing's forces in two days drove in to a maximum depth of 13 miles.

The Germans are reported readjusting their lines on the edges of the former salient, the probability being, however, that they are not being allowed to do this in peace by the American forces or the French on the flanks.

What further development the offensive may have is uncertain at present, the official communications and even the news dispatches today throwing little light on the plans.

Whatever the immediate future may hold, however, the ultimate effect of the drive which completely wiped out the St. Mihiel salient with a rapidity almost unexampled for such a large operation, will be important.

Meanwhile, as the intensity of the fighting on this front seems to have lessened, Marshal Foch has launched an offensive movement which seems mainly to be aimed at the St. Gobain massif defending the German citadel of Laon.

The French this morning attacked on both sides of the river Ailette and in the region of the Aisne to the south and southeast.

General Petain's troops started with a great rush which took them into the German lines at points for a distance of one to two miles. Prisoners began coming in rapidly, 1,800 having been taken in one division of the front alone at an early hour.

The French pressure seemed to be particularly effective south of the Ailette, where they captured the important heights of Mont-Des-Singes, and the towns of Allemont and Sancy. Their advance here threatens the right flank of the Germans at Chemin-des-Dames.

This movement also represents a further closing in on the St. Gobain massif. On the Aisne the French progress likewise was reported as satisfactory.

On the British front Field Marshal Haig's forces appear to have been occupied last night in beating off renewed German attacks on the important ground recently won from the enemy. All these attempts were unsuccessful.

The British have made progress, however, northwest of St. Quentin.

In Flanders British forces have occupied the town of Auchy-Lez-LaBasse, only a little more than a mile from LaBasse.

BRITISH AIRPLANES CAPTURE HUN BATTERIES

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES ON THE BRITISH FRONT, SEPTEMBER 12.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—The capture of a German battery by two British airplanes was one of the unique incidents of the fighting in this area.

The two airplanes discovered a party of Germans harnessing 40 or 50 horses in order to remove a battery of field guns before the Americans and British infantry, who were approaching, appeared on the scene. The airmen opened fire, frightening the horses and causing them to gallop off, leaving the entire battery to the mercy of the Americans.

With the American Army in Lorraine, September 13.—The civilian population of St. Mihiel, almost entirely feminine because of the forceful removal of practically every male of military age, welcomed Newton D. Baker and Generals Pershing and Petain when they visited the village a few hours after its capture. The village was their official host but in reality they were guests of women and children.

"HOT STUFF" IS PRAISED BY MARCH

Elimination of St. Mihiel Salient of Extreme Importance.

Pays High Tribute to American Forces Under Pershing.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, September 14.—Elimination of the St. Mihiel salient by the first big American offensive and shortening the line by 22 miles General March said today, is of extreme importance in that it gives the allies a much better base "for future offensive operations."

General March paid high tribute to the American forces which in less than two days wiped out this salient, the narrowest and most angular on the entire western front.

The operations there, he said, not only were a tribute to the work of the staff, but to the individual soldiers. "It's hot stuff," he said warmly.

NO DETAILS YET FROM PERSHING

No report has yet come from General Pershing identifying any individual unit participating in the advance.

He pointed out in connection with the German claim that the St. Mihiel salient had been abandoned that no mention was made of the great loss of prisoners.

Capture of the salient was accomplished by quick, sharp blows on both flanks, he explained. The American troops advanced across a difficult terrain consisting of densely wooded hills intersected by numerous ravines.

General March laid particular emphasis on the determination of the United States to continue to exert its entire strength against the Germans. He referred to recent publications which intimated that America was not going through with the war. This suggestion he declared was "preposterous in its falsity."

It seemed incredible, he said, that such propaganda could gain attention at a time when the War Department had just increased age limits and was about to ask an additional seven billion dollars for the military establishment this year.

THE RED CROSS GETS FIRST FUNDS FROM FAYETTE WAR CHEST

Disbursing Committee in Recent Action, Allows Total Sum of $44,250 For Purposes of Red Cross and Will Consider Other Demands as Presented—Total of $80,000 Has Been Collected

The disbursing committee of the Fayette County War Chest fund, composed of one representative from each township in the county, and the 12 members of the general committee of the Fayette County War Work Committee, recently made its first disbursement from the war chest, and this went to the Red Cross.

Fayette county's quota for the national campaign of the Red Cross, during the summer, was $24,000 and this amount was allowed, $18,000 of the amount going to the National Red Cross and the remaining $6,000 being retained by the Fayette County Chapter of the Red Cross to be used for civilian relief, as provided by the National Red Cross.

Obligations of the Fayette Chapter work rooms, totaling $2250 were allowed, together with an additional allotment of $1500 for the month of July and a similar amount for August. Also it was unanimously agreed that $1500 a month should be awarded the Red Cross work rooms for the remainder of the fiscal year, so that the total allotment made to the Red Cross for the year will be $44,250.

With the above allotments the Red Cross can now push its work steadily along a fixed schedule and the officers in charge will know exactly what to do.

Other demands upon the War Chest will be taken up as they are properly presented, and definite action taken.

Chairman M. S. Daugherty reports that to date more than $80,000 of the war chest fund has been paid in, and that the promptness with which the payments are made is highly gratifying, and is a true indication of the loyal manner in which Fayette county people are supporting the war and aiding the men at the front and in camp.

The Fayette County War Chest will ever be one of the golden pages in Fayette county's history.

THE COMMERCIAL BANK

WASHINGTON C.H., OHIO

Muscle Shoals, Ala., Sept. 5.
Dear Aunt Eva:—
As I write this the song that most people like runs in mind. “Carry me Back to Ole Virginny.” But I really wish it was “Carry me back to Ole Ohio.” Please do not think that I am lonesome or homesick, for I am not.

We have had rain all week and this is some place when it rains. You understand it is a new little town, just built since January last and naturally there is nothing but mud, dirt and people all mixed up together. I suppose I might say there is mud and more mud—instead of mud and people. Just like walking out through a cornfield after a rain, but we all are brave little soldiers and plow right through.

There are about one hundred and twenty-five girls in the Barracks. It is just like the Barracks for soldiers. I haven't had my hands in warm water since the 19th of August. I can't say at the present sitting when I will either, but I should worry. It is just like camping out, only worse, I imagine. We get up anywhere from six bells to seven-thirty. Have a nice cold shower bath, we have no tubs, dress and walk three-quarters of a mile to Mess Hall. Have fairly good eats, if you don't care what you say, and never had a good meal. We work from eight until twelve; then one hour for Mess again; then back at one o'clock and off at five bells.

I have had my vaccination and just got my third “shot” today. Now I'm through a regular veteran.

I thought I would be in a land of pretty girls and fruit and flowers, but alas! The girls are about as big and homely as myself and the flowers are no less than nigger heads and fruit just can be had for any price.

Oh, we have some good times. It is nice and cool here today and the girls are about to freeze. They are wearing as much serge down here now as we wear in the winter up north.

We have a house mother over us in the Barracks and we all have to be in by ten bells.

We are blessed with one store; a post office, my best friend; buildings galore for the different offices; a hospital; and a canteen. Dear old canteen, it says “For White Men Only” but we girls go in there once in a while. You all can't do too much for the boys while they are over here. I suppose they do not have it any worse than we girls do in the Barracks, but at that the more you do the better for you. And they must cherish a letter. You don't know anything about it, you just can't imagine. I often think of the poor boys that have no one to write to them or care for them at all. I wonder what they get out of life.

In the center of our Barracks is a dance floor and every Saturday night we have a dance. Yes, I indulge. But we are properly chaperoned in everything we do, thank goodness, for it would not be a decent place for a girl to stay if we weren't. But the government has fixed for us in every way.

I will expect you to do your bit and write to me. But remember the boys first, you can't do too much, whether it's your brother or someone else's brother.

Yours lovingly,
SARAH.

YANKS WIN GOOD WILL OF ALL ALLIED FORCES

(Associated Press Correspondence)
BEHIND THE BRITISH LINES

IN FRANCE, September 3.—To an American visiting the Western front in these stirring times, it is a surprise and a pleasure to note the interest and anticipation with which the more active participation of the Americans is greeted on every hand.

The Canadian soldiers invariably adopt the attitude of “I told you so” when the official reports chronicle American successes. The Australians also pride themselves on their intimacy with the Americans, and take a personal pride in every good deed which the Americans do, as if in some way, they, themselves had some share in it.

The English Tommies are content to express delight and satisfaction, but always as if eager to believe the best and give credit for every excuse. The Americans, by their unassuming ways and insistent aggressiveness in the line, have won the good will of the whole Imperial British army.

ALLIES WILL CONTROL ALL RAW MATERIALS

By Associated Press Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, September 14.—Allied control of raw materials after the war is perhaps receiving more attention from the British than any other post-war policy, according to advices received by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Phillip B. Kennedy, American commercial attaché at London, in a report to Washington officials, says that after the British government has perfected with the dominion governments a plan for obtaining control of materials in the British Empire, it is expected that representations will be made to the United States and other allied countries for some common action.

Important meetings of the Imperial War Conference and the Imperial War Cabinet were held in London during July, he says, at which prime ministers and others representing the dominions were present. The conference is a deliberative body which reports its decisions to the cabinet, a more executive organization. Questions of imperial policy were discussed at the meetings, which were regarded of unusual authority because of the prominence of the conferees.

A special committee of the conference was appointed to consider the best methods by which essential raw materials may be controlled, and Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has informed Parliament that arrangements being made with the dominion representatives for the control of materials are to be the basis for beginning negotiations with other countries.

Close imperial co-operation in matters of economic policy is favored by the dominion representatives, judging from their utterances, Mr. Kennedy reports. He adds that Australia and New Zealand are interested in retaining the German colonies in the Pacific and in combating German trade after the war.

The dominions were asked to pass a law similar to the British non-ferrous metal industries act which makes it necessary to obtain licenses to trade in metal. Such legislation is designed to free the British Empire from dependence on German controlled organizations.

Another important resolution adopted by the conference is understood to have asked the dominions to co-operate with the imperial government in protecting the developing British dye industry.

IRISH GOVERNMENT CORRECTS AN ERROR

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Dublin, September 5.—The Irish Government has now corrected the error made by some of its subordinates which had resulted in the stopping by force of many football games, dances and concerts. The proclamation prohibits public meetings, processions, and assemblies without a permit. The permit is given as a matter of course, except where disturbance, sedition, or pro-German propaganda is feared. There was a universal refusal to apply for permits at all.

Many policemen throughout the country misconstrued the proclamation and applied its prohibitions indiscriminately, suppressing assemblies for games and amusements which could not have been within the contemplation of the Government.

As a protest a “Gaelic Sunday” was organized, and it was decided to carry

When a German report came in the other day of five airplanes brought down from a patrol of six American raiders, frank incredulity was expressed everywhere. When the American report verified it, there was nothing in it but hard luck and a basis for further avenging exploits.

The American flying men have a hard time before them to sustain the hopes held out for them by their admirers in the British and Canadian battalions. The kindly applause showered on American methods by the English newspapers—which have from the first ignored the mistakes certain to creep into any war administration—is either accepted in France as the complete story or is a reflection of the feeling here.

Nowhere was the amity of feeling between the Americans and the various British units better demonstrated than at the recent Dominion Day sports behind the British lines. The events of that day are acknowledged to have been the greatest gala-day celebration ever held in the war area.

on the game in pretty nearly every parish in Ireland in defiance of the police. The Government had, however, in the meantime, defined more accurately for the police the real intentions of the proclamation, and the demonstrators were accordingly allowed to hold their games everywhere without interference. As often happens in Ireland what threatened to be a day of general conflict turned out to be quite peaceful.

An attempt was made on a small scale in Dublin to get up a Casement Flag Day on the anniversary of his execution, but it was stopped by the police.

RECEPTION WILL BE GIVEN PATTON

The boys of the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon will give a reception for Mr. Walter Patton, former general secretary of the local Association. All of the boys not having had a chance to greet Mr. Patton since his arrival from France.

The reception will begin at two-thirty Sunday afternoon and every boy and young man in the city and county is welcome. It is planned to give him a good reception and to make him feel that he has not been forgotten since his departure a year ago. There will be some good quartet singing to start the ball rolling, then all will listen to some of the stories that “Pat” has to tell.

Ice cream cones will be served after the get-together meeting is over.

MAY USE “SOLDIERS” WITH “CONSCIENCE”

Supt. Rheams, of the Federal Employment Bureau in this city, went to Camp Sherman Saturday for the purpose of obtaining some of the “conscientious objectors” for corn cutting purposes.

Incidentally the labor supply at the present time is totally inadequate to meet the demand for corn cutters in Fayette, Pickaway and Clinton counties.

Up to Saturday morning the total number of registrants in Fayette county had reached 2419, and the work of placing serial numbers on the registration cards was under way, and will be completed within a day or two.

A complete list, arranged in alphabetical order, will be issued by the Local Board sometime next week, and within a very short time, questionnaires will be sent out to men of 18 to 21 and 32 to 36 inclusive.

The sending of these questionnaires may take place next week, although definite orders have not yet been received.

Lord Milner, British Minister of War, in a recent statement issued at London, urged the necessity of continuing to rush American troops to France. ## America's First Offensive

The American troops in their first great major offensive in Europe have measured up to the hopes and beliefs of the home folks. We all knew they would. Our allies are surprised and gratified at the tremendous fighting power, military genius, heroism and initiative of the American soldiers and commanders. Preceded by an American artillery bombardment beginning shortly after midnight of Wednesday, the American troops singing "Where Do We Go From Here" went over the top and after the Huns in the Lorraine sector, just as the gray dawn came in the east Thursday. The amazed Germans were quickly carried out of their first and second line defenses and from the moment of the first impact all through Thursday and Friday the victorious Americans pressed on irresistibly, pushing in both sides of the great St. Mihiel salient, defying the defense fighting of the Huns and taking commanding positions with startling rapidity, until within less than forty-eight hours the great salient had collapsed for the first time since it was forced into the French lines four years ago. Almost within sight now of the great German citadel of Metz, with the iron fields of Lorraine in their grasp, while our soldiers push on to further brilliant victories, we at home may say well done. It's glorious news that comes from the war zones, so good after four years of anxious waiting.

It's glorious news that comes from the war zones, so good after four years of anxious waiting.

A Warning Note

Prompt and decisive action was taken by President Wilson, himself, on Friday to enforce industrial peace and continued war production when he notified employers and employees alike that the government would promptly exercise its vast authority, by commandeering industrial plants in case employers were at fault and rigidly enforcing the work or fight order where employees were at fault, rather than suffer any interruption in the work of producing war necessities.

The warning came to all alike in language unmistakable, used by the chief executive in a letter directed to workmen of Bridgeport, Connecticut, who refused to work in a war munition plant after a final award had been made by the War Labor Board upon voluntary submission of the dispute.

In this announcement the note of warning is heard. It is as clear and distinct a summons to duty for the industrial army as is the bugle call to the soldier in uniform.

It is a warning which cannot be unheeded that the government is through with tyrannical labor agitators, disgruntled employes and profiteering employers, who in this case, as in nearly every instance, represent only a very small percentage of the men involved in all industrial disputes.

The time has come when, with the enlarged powers given their government by the people, we are going to have industrial peace and uninterrupted war work, safe from the meddlesome agitators and greedy profiteers, and when men must work for the blessings they enjoy if not in the front line then in essential vocations. "Work or fight."

Aim Higher

The mistaken few slow up in their endeavors for fear they will exceed some of the few sluggards in war work. Instead of endeavoring to measure up to the full extent of their capacity for work, trying to equal or exceed the work of the most active among the war workers, they imagine that they can ease their consciences and satisfy themselves by doing only what some isolated recalcitrant or neglectful man does.

That's a woeful mistake. It not only disorganizes the collective plan and reduces the grand aggregate result of which, thus far, the nation is so justly proud, but if allowed to become a fixed rule for any considerable number of individuals would result in national disaster.

The standard must be kept up always by aiming high. No sane man would think of lowering his standard of endeavor in his private affairs to that of his most no-account acquaintances. The successful man looks forward and upward toward more success and greater effort.

Suppose a soldier in the army would conclude that he wouldn't serve in an assigned position because another soldier had an assignment which didn't entail so much hardship or danger—he'd be shot.

If any considerable number of soldiers would get the same erroneous notion and be allowed to use it the effect on the army is not difficult to imagine. There wouldn't be any army.

It is up to each one of us. We must buckle on our armor—we are all soldiers—and do our utmost.

Poetry For Today

OUR COUNTRY'S CALL

God bless our noble men,
 Send them safe home again,
 When victory's won;
 Keep them within Thy care,
 Guard them where'er they fare
 Help them to do and dare
 Till war is done.

Our country's cause is just,
 We fight because we must,
 In Freedom's name;
 Then Freemen, one and all,
 Hear ye your country's call,
 And if 'tis yours to fall
 Defend her fame.

O! valiant sons and free,
 Offsprings of liberty,
 A chosen band;
 Strike boldly for the right,
 Strike, strike with all your might,
 Go boldly to the fight
 And save our land.

Then forward, glorious ones,
 'Gainst world-defying Huns,
 Be thou our shield;
 Hold honor ever dear
 Have only God in fear,
 And know that He is near
 On every field.

Our glorious land, for thee,
 Our sons we offer free,
 In this great fight;
 We know their valor true
 Will crush the Kaiser's crew,
 And bring the world anew
 To peace and right.

WOMEN TO DRIVE FIRE APPARATUS

(By Associated Press Dispatch)
 Cincinnati, O., September 14.—It is possible that Cincinnati women will have the opportunity to drive ladder trucks and other motorized apparatus of the fire department. Eighty percent of the members of the Motor Corps of the National League for Women's Service in this city are society women. The Corps has a membership of about 100, each of whom has a chauffeur's license.

"If the draft takes too many of our men we may call upon the Corps for help," said Fire Chief Houston. "We have not given the matter serious consideration but it is well to think a bit ahead in this business. If the situation became serious we feel we could replace about 32 men. These are chauffeurs of 14 ladder trucks, two fuel wagons, six marshal's automobiles, two assistant chief's autos, one office automobile, six fire prevention office machines, and my own. Women, of course, would not be called to fight fires.

"The plan, I understand, has been successful in New York. The Motor Corps there, made up of prominent women, is driving fire vehicles. They must have three years' experience and must be able to take down and set up the mechanism. There are 282 of them divided equally into day and night shifts."

Social and Personal

It will be of interest to friends here to learn of the engagement of Mr. Robert McKee, who was formerly engaged in newspaper work in this city, as found in the society columns of the Knoxville Sentinel.

"Announcement has been made of the coming marriage of Miss Eufaula Fain Bickley, of this city, to Robert Hamilton McKee, managing editor of the Herald-Courier.

Miss Bickley is the attractive daughter of Mrs. Hannah F. Beckley and is prominently connected throughout Tennessee. She is a grand daughter of General John M. Fain.

Mr. McKee came here from Ohio several years ago to enter the newspaper business. He was formerly in the newspaper business in Springfield, O., and other cities.

The wedding is to be one of the social events of the fall."

With charming informality Mrs. Carl Mallow entertained three tables of "Bridge" at her pretty country home, Friday afternoon.

VON HERTLING SEEING THINGS

(American Press)
Amsterdam, Sept. 14.—Reiterating that Germany was "the innocent" and attacked party in the war, and had a right to indemnification, Friedrich von Payer, the German imperial vice-chancellor, in a speech at Stuttgart said that "we prefer, on calm reflection, and even with our own favorable military situation, to abandon this idea."

Turning to the question of the occupied territories, the vice-chancellor said that as a preliminary condition of peace for Germany and her allies those nations must have all their pre-war possessions, including the German colonies, restored. Then Germany, he declared, could evacuate the occupied regions and could give back Belgium without encumbrance and without reserve, providing no other state was more favorably placed in regard to Belgium than was Germany. He asserted that Germany would not submit to the entente powers for approval or alteration of the peace treaties which Germany had signed with the Ukraine, Russia and Roumania.

Notwithstanding the declaration of Germany's peace offer, Count Von Hertling, the imperial German chancellor, is convinced that peace is nearer than is generally supposed, according to an address made by the chancellor before the trades unionist leaders in Germany. The chancellor declared that both the German government and army leaders desired an understanding and peace. Count Von Hertling said the government and the army leaders were against all conquests.

AERIAL BOMBING AN EXACT SCIENCE AMONG THE ALLIES

(Associated Press Correspondence)
Behind British Lines in France, September 5.—Aerial bombing is today far more of an exact science than was supposed possible a year and a half ago. In the early days of the war, dropping bombs was largely a matter of luck, and the straight eye of the aviator was the only factor relied upon for success.

Today, however, matters are entirely different. Accurate bomb-sights have been produced which, carefully used, are a guarantee of the bomb falling on the object aimed at, within a very small margin of error. Of course, in the case of all such instruments, the human element is sometimes responsible for errors of calculation, and a small error on a bombsight at 15,000 feet will send a bomb far out of its course. In the words of an American aviator who has done some splendid raiding work in France:

"It is wonderful what you can miss with a bomb."

From this it must not be thought that the majority of Allied bombs do not reach their billets in Germany or in the German lines; for aerial photographs taken after raids have shown that they do. But emphasis is laid on the importance of the personal factor in bombing. In the excitement of work of this kind—often in the midst of heavy shell fire—a very cool head is required to manipulate an instrument as delicate as a bomb-sight. British airmen for example, receive a very thorough training in bombing before they are allowed to proceed overseas, and must obtain a certain number of hits before they can graduate.

It is thought that quite a lot of the wanton and useless destruction of private property in England by German raiders is due to sheer bad bombing. Undoubtedly the Central Powers are behind the Allies in regard to bombing gear, for on a large German twin-engine bombing airplane recently captured was found a crude copy of an English bomb-sight which was introduced more than two years ago.

Aerial bombs range in size from 10 pounds up to fifty or sixty times that weight and are roughly of two kinds, incendiary and high explosive. They are generally laid on their sides in racks underneath the airplane; but sometimes they are carried in cells especially fitted in the fuselage or body of the machine. In either case they are fused and released by levers placed convenient to the pilot or observer, the bombs themselves being far out of reach.

TOO MUCH BOOZE AUTO IS WRECKED

The big war tanks which charge around over European battlefields have nothing on the plain, ordinary "tinlizzie" when it comes to smashing down obstructions.

William Morris, of Washington, C. H., demonstrated this fact Wednesday evening. He came to this city during the day and quenched his thirst with various mixed drinks until he did not know whether he was in Chillicothe or Timbuctoo.

Along about midnight he concluded that he had better be heading homeward, so he started west on Second street. Somehow or other his foggy mind conceived the idea that he was a war hero charging the Huns, and when he reached the head of Second street and saw the stone wall which runs in front of Charles Wissler's residence he saw his duty.

Then he charged. The Ford struck the stone wall at the corner—crash! Two big stones were knocked clear out of the wall and the only damage the Ford sustained was a bent front wheel.

But, sad to relate, instead of being awarded the war cross, Morris was haled to the city prison and a charge of driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition was filed against him.—Chillicothe News.

TOMORROW THIRD GASLESS SUNDAY

Sunday is the third gasless day of the series, and while the weather man declares it will be an ideal one for motoring, the government order remains in full effect and there is every reason to believe that it will be observed just a little more carefully than ever before, and that life for the violators will be made miserable.

All officers will pick up the number of every car, and in this they will be aided by citizens who wish to put a stop to the violations.

FAIR COTTON PRICE IS THE PROSPECT

(American Press)
Washington, Sept. 14.—President Wilson announced that a fair price for raw cotton will be fixed if that should be deemed necessary after the committee to be appointed by the war industries board has completed its inquiry into the general cotton situation.

During the investigation a separate committee of three, soon to be named, will buy cotton for the use of the United States government and the allies at prices to be approved by the president. Since most of the cotton of the country is required for war uses, government buying is expected to stabilize prices.

The president said that the purpose of the investigation to be conducted by the committee is to devise methods for broadening the channels of distribution and use of the great stock of low grade cotton now practically unmarketable, for eliminating speculation and hoarding and apportioning foreign orders.

The president's statement, it was explained, was issued to "avoid misinterpretation" of statements by the war industries board concerning the stabilization of the cotton industry. Price fixing of cotton has been vigorously opposed by senators from southern states, who have had several conferences with Chairman Baruch of the board. They contend that the law of supply and demand should continue to govern the price.

Decision of the president and war industries board to investigate the cotton situation followed closely the recent announcement of the department of agriculture that droughts over the belt in July and August had reduced the probable yield from the estimate of about 15,325,000 bales to 11,137,000 bales. After this forecast, was published the price of cotton rose $10 a bale on the principal exchanges.

JURY DISAGREES

The jury in the case of the State of Ohio vs. Clark Whitmore returned a verdict of disagreement at 9 o'clock Tuesday night.

The defendant was charged with acting in a manner to cause delinquency on the part of a minor, and was tried in Probate Judge Murray's court in the court room on Tuesday. The jury stood 8 for guilty and 4 for acquittal. The case will probably be retried.

Prosecuting Attorney C. C. Crabbe represented the state. Attorney Lee Rankin, of Washington, C. H., and Hon. John F. Locke, represented the defense.—Madison County Democrat.

NO GRAIN LOST

(American Press)
Columbus, Sept. 14.—Ohio's summer's crops, harvested on time, are now safely in mill and barn. Not a grain was lost through lack of labor, the Ohio food administration reported. "Fresh reserves, consisting of farm women and help supplied by the federal employment service, enabled the farmer to carry on until their objectives were fully attained. Good weather during the harvest season, the boys' working reserve and the return of many retired farmers to active work were among other factors contributing to a successful harvest.

FAYETTE COUNTY BANKERS ORGANIZE

The Fayette County bankers, at a recent meeting, formed an organization to be known as the Fayette County Bankers Association, the action being taken largely because of the war work demands and the need of a unified action during the period of the war.

The organization was formed by electing M. S. Daugherty the president; he having served 37 years in the banking business; S. M. Taggart, of Jeffersonville, for 32 years engaged in the banking business, was made vice-president; while F. O. Cline, of the Fayette County Bank, was made secretary and W. E. Smith of the Milledgeville Bank, was elected Treasurer.

A committee on rules and regulations was appointed to report September 4th. This committee is composed of R. T. McClure, C. U. Armstrong and W. E. Smith.

FORTRESS OF METZ MAY BE CUT OFF

(American Press)
Washington, Sept. 14.—Complete elimination of the St. Mihiel salient by General Pershing's army and co-operating French forces, the army officials here believe, may lay the opening wedge of operations of far larger scope. A great encircling movement aimed at isolating the German fortress of Metz, the center buttress of the whole German front from the North sea to the Swiss border, may be attempted by Supreme Commander Foch.

The strategic importance of General Pershing's smashing victory hardly can be overestimated, in the opinion of many observers. It is out of all proportion to the extent of the territory regained or the forces employed, it is said, for the removal of this menace in the rear of the French citadel of Verdun has released the French armies from that point to Rheims for active offensive operations.

It also has liberated the railway line from Verdun to Commercy, Toul and Nancy, which will be of the utmost value to General Pershing and to the French armies on his left in supporting future operations along this front.

It was the loss of this railroad, severed by the Germans in 1914, with the capture of St. Mihiel, which placed the Verdun fortress in gravest jeopardy and brought on the battle of Verdun, where the Germans met a bitter and costly defeat at the hands of the French. Ever since then the German grip on the heights around Verdun has held the French in his region and to the east and west of the salient chained to defensive operations. The numerical strength of the French army was not sufficient to permit an effort to drive the enemy off without weakening the lines elsewhere.

General Pershing has now signalized the entry of the American army into the war by smashing the enemy's only remaining salient on the whole battle front, and smashing it in less than two days of fighting.

There is nothing to indicate that the American advance has stopped. The German official statement was that a new line had been prepared, but the nature of the country where the Americans stood indicated that the German defense position must be farther back toward Metz, where better natural obstacles are available. It was expected here that American patrols would push forward to feel out this line before a new advance is undertaken.

TO HELP GREECE

(American Press)

Washington, Sept. 14.—Greece, hard hit by the war, is to be given assistance by the United States, England and France. Emergency relief to refugees and economic development are included in the program of the allied nations interested. Blocking of German attempts to recover trade supremacy in this southernmost Balkan state after the war may result from these efforts. An American Red Cross mission sails shortly with food, clothing, medicine and a competent staff of medical sanitary experts. It will give relief to 200,000 refugees, victims of the Turkish and Bulgarian outrages. An initial expenditure of $400,000 will be increased later. Modern farming will be taught Greek peasants who follow primitive methods.

The Church Finance Committee needs the hearty and prompt co-operation of every member in closing up the year so that all bills can be met in full when due. The "current expenses" are indicated by the following list: Bishops, district superintendent, pastor, conference claimants music, janitor, parsonage taxes, church and parsonage repairs, interest, insurance, water, heat, light, printing and other necessary items of expense.

Each member is earnestly requested tomorrow (Sunday, September 15) to bring his full Benevolence offering for this conference year (using red print half of envelope or a special envelope marked "Benevolence.") Let us be on our guard against neglecting these very important causes in these critical days. For our great Methodist Benevolences are vitally important to the extension of the Kingdom.

The "Benevolences" are indicated by the following list: Home Missions, Foreign Missions, Church Extension, Sunday School Extension, Freedman's Aid, Church Temperance and Public Morals Society, Deaconesses and American Bible Society.

Black Envelope—Red Envelope—Please remember that: The Black print half of the weekly envelope is for "current expenses" payment. The red print half of the weekly envelope is for the regular benevolences of the church.
